

Andre R. Campbell, MD, FACS, FACP, FCCM, MAMSE

Dr. Campbell is currently Professor of Surgery at the University of California, San Francisco, School of Medicine. In addition, he is also an attending trauma surgeon at Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center. Dr. Campbell attended Harvard University where he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in Biology in 1980. He attended medical school at the University of California, San Francisco and received his MD degree in 1985. His formal training was at Columbia University Medical Center in New York City. Dr. Campbell is fully trained in internal medicine, general surgery, and surgical critical care. He has been on the faculty at University of California, San Francisco based at San Francisco General Hospital for the past two decades. His research and clinical interest have been the ICU care of trauma patients, acute lung injury after trauma, the abdominal compartment syndrome, and surgical education.

Dr. Campbell is the one for most decorated surgical educators at UCSF. He has received numerous awards from medical school students at the School of Medicine. His educational accomplishments have been celebrated both locally at UCSF and nationally. He was recognized for his educational accomplishments as a founding member of the Haile T. Debas Academy of Medical Educators. In addition, in 2003, he was appointed Endowed Chair of Surgical Education at University of California, San Francisco for two five-year terms. He served as Clerkship Director for the third-year medical student undergraduate education program all the UCSF hospitals over a twenty-year period.

Dr. Campbell has directed the Surgical Critical Care Fellowship at the University of California, San Francisco for 23 years and has trained many fellows who now practice trauma, surgical critical care and acute care surgery around the United States and the World. In the past, he served as Medical Director of the Trauma Intensive Care Unit at the Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital for 20 years. He was selected to serve on the Verification Review Committee of the American College of Surgeons Committee on Trauma and is actively involved in Trauma Site Surveys for the ACS. In addition, he served on the Board of Governors of the American College of Surgeons Executive Committee. He was selected to be Secretary for the Board of Governors. He has served on the ACS/COT Central Committee. He was given the honor of presenting “The Last Lecture 2016” at UCSF by a majority of students from all five graduate programs.

Dr. Campbell was appointed the Inaugural Vice-Chair for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion at in the Department of Surgery at UCSF, School of Medicine. He has been in the active practice of general surgery, trauma and acute care surgery for over 25 years. Two years ago, he was elected as a full member of the American College of Surgeons Master Surgical Educators. He was recently appointed Adjunct Professor to the Uniform University of the Health Sciences. Currently Dr. Campbell is the President of the Society for Black Academic Surgeons. He is author of numerous articles, abstracts and has lectured throughout the United States and around the world. Dr. Campbell is a master surgeon, teacher, mentor, clinical researcher, and clinical educator in the department of surgery at UCSF.